Risk and reward profile

What does this synthetic risk and reward indicator mean?

- The units of class ID are classified in category 6 because the value of the unit may be subject to high variations and consequently the risk of loss and the opportunity of gain may be high.
- The risk category for this unit class was calculated using historical data. The risk category may not be a reliable indicator of the unit class's future risk profile. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time.
- The seven-category scale is complex, for example 2 is not twice as risky as 1. The gap between 1 and 2 might not be the same as the gap between 5 and 6. A category 1 sub-fund is not a risk-free investment - the risk of losing your money is small, but the chance of making gains is also limited.

Which materially relevant risks are not adequately captured by the synthetic indicator?

- Emerging market risk: the sub-fund may be exposed to risk of countries and markets that have less developed political, economic and legal systems.

- Liquidity risk: low liquidity might result in that it would be difficult or impossible to buy or sell an investment instrument in a timely manner and that the price could be lower or higher than expected.
- Currency risk: the sub-fund may hold some of its investments in currencies other than the sub-fund's reference currency. Thus the value of the sub-fund may rise and fall due to currency movements.
- Operational risk: the risk of loss resulting from e.g. system breakdowns, human errors or from external events.
- Sustainability risk: The broad ESG Goals of this sub-fund may lead the Investment Manager to invest in or exclude securities for non-financial reasons, irrespective of market opportunities in order to achieve the stated ESG Goals. The financial returns of this sub-fund may not be equivalent or surpass those of non-ESG financial products. Data constraint is a big challenge and there are limitations on the types of sustainability and ESG-related data currently provided to the market.

How can I get more information about the risks of the sub-fund?

Additional information concerning the risks of investment is indicated in the corresponding sections of the prospectus of the fund.
